

BIG CROWD SEES MAY PROCESSION

Six Hundred Children of St. Patrick's Church March Through Streets.

MAY JACQUES IS QUEEN

Rev. Thomas E. McGuigan Preaches Sermon—Queen Has Fifty Maids of Honor.

Six hundred children participated in the annual May procession in honor of the Blessed Virgin from St. Patrick's Academy and Church yesterday. Assembling in the auditorium of the academy, in G street, near Tenth northwest, the children marched around the corner to the church, where the services were held.

A large crowd gathered about the corner to witness the parade. The queen of the May was Miss May Jacques, who was attended by fifty maids of honor. Four hundred students from St. Patrick's Academy, 100 boys from St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum and 100 girls from St. Vincent's Asylum were in the procession.

Rev. Thomas E. McGuigan, of St. Patrick's, preached the sermon at the church service. Queen May Jacques read the Act of Consecration and the crowning of the statue of the Virgin followed. The benediction was celebrated by Mr. Russell.

The Maids of Honor.

In the court of the May queen were Arthur Murray, crown bearer; Rose Russell, Mary Price and Doris Moulthby, train bearers, and the following maids: Margaret Lattimer, Alice Burke, Eleanor Jacques, Regina Fisher, Lucille Gaskins, Margaret Joy, Helen Oriani, Edna Oriani, Gertrude Driscoll, Zelma Jasper, Ruth Louis, Helen Louis, Loretta Gaskins, Mary Snow, Mary J. Israel, Rosemary Lucas, Isabelle Cain, Margery Emery, Mary McEwen, Josephine Gantley, Helen Vincent, Genevieve Gaskins, Florence Crooke, Mary Slattery, Alice Wolf, Mary O'Brien, Marian Donnelly, Edith Vincent, Catherine Hudson, Agnes Murtagh, Florence Hardy, Frances Gandy, Molly, Eleanor Wilkinson, Jessie Hall, Heister Moreland, Edith Warren, Catherine Kriek, Florence Cipolatti, Louise Young, Frances Rittau, Helen Lattimer, Mary Russell, Loretta Lyons, Maude Selgel, Olive Gosnell, Sarah Marshall, and Mildred Coe.

WANTED, A BUYER FOR TWO TONS OF BOOKS

Prospective Purchasers Should Apply to E. L. Thurston, Superintendent of District Public Schools.

E. L. Thurston, superintendent of schools, would like to get in touch with somebody who wants to buy two tons of aged text books. He says they can be purchased by paper manufacturers or will go back to the concerns supplying the books to the District schools as part payment for the new ones to be purchased.

"Every year we have the grade instructors look over the books used by the pupils and select those they think will not do another year's service," said Mr. Thurston. "These books can never be used again, yet they are valuable to the paper manufacturers, who can turn them into white paper again. If we sell them, the proceeds go into the book fund, if traded, the price paid is charged to our account with the publishers."

"We have done nothing with this year's allotment, and are looking for somebody who wants them."

PLAN PARK IMPROVEMENTS.

Fine Arts Commission Also Considering Transportation Problems.

Improvement of the parks south of the State, War and Navy Building is under consideration by the Fine Arts Commission. Frederick Law Olmstead, member of the commission, and one of the leading landscape artists in the United States, is working out the plans. The commission also is considering means of transportation to the Lincoln Memorial.

It is planned to plant many trees in portions of the White House grounds, change the existing driveways and bridge paths and make a vista of the State, War and Navy Building from the river front.

PEARY IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Discoverer Escapes Injury When Machines Meet in Roadway.

Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary narrowly averted injury in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon, while motoring on Nichols avenue southeast. A dextrous turn of the steering wheel prevented serious results.

The admiral was driving toward the city when he met a car driven by R. E. Duval, 1363 H street northeast, on a bend in the roadway. Both cars were turned aside as they collided. A broken fender on the Duval car was the only damage.

Books on the Great War

Many Books have been written concerning the Great European War now raging, and many more will be written. All have their place, and some fill most important niches in the true narrative of the war.

One of the well-known authors says:

"I do not know how wildly wrong I may have been about kilometers and points of the compass, the position of batteries and the movement of armies, but there were other things of which I was dead sure, and this record has at least the value of a 'human document'."

Out of the mass of books on war topics we mention the following:

A Journal of Impressions in Belgium, by May Sinclair; $1.50.
Men, Women and War, by Will Irwin; $1.00.

Vive La France (Illustrated), by Alexander Power; $1.00.

The Writing on the Wall, by Eric Fisher Wood; $1.00.

With the French in France and Saloniki, by R. H. Davis; $1.00.

The Diplomacy of the Great War, by A. Bullard; $1.50.

The Struggle of Diplomacy, by Walter Lippmann; $1.25.

The Challenge of the Future, by R. G. Usher; $1.75.

Order by Battle, by Fredk. S. Oliver; $1.50.

With Our Army in Flanders, by G. V. Williams; $3.50.

The Path of Glory, by Anatole France; $1.50.

Revelations of an International Spy, by I. T. T. Lincoln; $1.50.

Why War? by Frederick G. Howe; $1.50.

Roadside Glimpses of the Great War, by Arthur Sweetser; $1.25.

Antwerp to Gallipoli, by Arthur Ruhl; $1.50.

Fear God and Take Your Own Part, by Theodore Roosevelt; $1.50.

Our Military History, by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood; $1.00.

Over the Front in an Aeroplane, by Ralph Pulitzer; $1.00.

In the Hands of the Enemy, by E. G. O'Rourke; 50c.

The Pentecost of Calamity, by Owen Winter; 50c.

Stultitia (Or Save America), a Drama; $1.00.
